STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Following the recommendations of the Committee on the Financial System (Narasimham Committee) the Reserve Bank of India had introduced a new set of norms for income recognition and provisioning and also for capital adequacy in relation to risk weighted assets. These norms were designed to put the financial accounting and prudential standards of Indian banks on a sound footing in line with current international practice. Following the introduction of these norms, all the nationalised banks as well as the State Bank of India will have to build up their capital base substantially over the next 3 years. All banks have to ensure that their total capital equals at least 8 per cent. of their risk weighted assets by 31st March, 1996. This norm has to be reached by 31st March, 1994 in the case of banks having overseas operations.

2. Achievement of the prescribed capital adequacy norms is essential for the basic financial health of the banking system. It is also essential for its international credibility since banks all over the world are adopting these standards which were laid down by the committee on Banking Regulations and Supervisory Practices set up by the Bank of International Settlements.

3. State Bank of India, being a bank with overseas operations, is required to reach a capital adequacy ratio of 8 per cent. by 31st March, 1994. For this purpose, the State Bank of India is required to mobilise substantial additional resources from the market. The Bank is, therefore, coming out shortly with a rights-cum-public issue.

4. With a view to comply with the guidelines issued by the Securities and Exchange Board of India and also to enable the bank to attract a large number of smaller individual investors and keeping in view the current market preference, certain amendments in the State Bank of India Act, 1955 are necessary to provide for (i) reduction in the face value of Bank's share from Rs. 100 to Rs. 10; (ii) removal of restriction of 200 shares on individual holding (iii) raising of ceiling placed on voting rights from 1 per cent. to 10 per cent.; (iv) doing away with the maintenance of branch registers at Local Head Offices; (v) maintenance of central register at the Central Office and to keep that register in computer floppies or diskettes; and (iv) other consequential amendments on account of abolition of branch registers.

5. As Parliament was not in session, the President promulgated the State Bank of India (Amendment) Ordinance, 1993 (Ord. No. 33 of 1993) on the 15th October, 1993.

6. The Bill seeks to replace the above Ordinance.

NEW DELHI,

The 25th November, 1993.

MANMOHAN SINGH

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 3 of the Bill seeks to amend section 11 of the State Bank of India Act, 1955 to provide that no shareholder, other than the Reserve Bank of India, shall be entitled to exercise voting rights in respect of any shares held by him in excess of 10 per cent. of the issued capital provided that such shareholder shall be entitled to exercise voting rights at such higher percentage as the Central Government may, after consultation with the Reserve Bank, specify.

2. Clause 5 of the Bill seeks to substitute section 13 of the State Bank of India Act, 1955 to provide, inter alia, that it shall be lawful for the State Bank to keep the register of shareholders in computer floppies or diskettes subject to such safeguards as may be prescribed. The safeguards would be prescribed by means of regulations for framing of which necessary provisions have been made in section 50 of the Act as contained in clause 20 of the Bill. Consequent upon the abolition of the branch registers, regulations are required to be framed for determination of areas falling within the jurisdiction of each Local Head Office. For this purpose a new clause is proposed to be inserted in section 50(2) of the Act as provided in clause 20 of the Bill.

3. The matters in respect of which notifications may be issued or regulations may be made in accordance with the aforesaid provisions are matters of procedure and detail. The delegation of legislative power contained in such provisions is, therefore, of a normal character.
